

e- Infrastructures and the Humanities in Ireland

Susan Schreibman, Don Gourley and Keith Rochford

Digital Humanities Observatory, Ireland

The Digital Humanities Observatory (DHO), the national digital humanities centre of Ireland, was partnered with e-Irish National Infra-Structure (-e-INIS) early in both project's development life cycle. In what first seemed to be a marriage of convenience created by funding opportunities, the relationship between the two organisations has flourished into a mutually synergistic relationship. This talk will explore that partnership, particularly concentrating on how the organisations compliment and enhance each other's primary mission.

