

Evolving the European Grid Infrastructure

Steven Newhouse

EGI.eu

The European Grid Infrastructure is nearly one year old. The presentation will provide a brief overview of its achievements so far and describe its current status. Finally, the challenges of building an infrastructure that can respond to the changing needs of a diverse user community through a federated virtualised infrastructure will be identified, along with the plans for coming years.